ACTING INTENSIVE

In this six-week acting intensive workshop taught by Teacher Corey, students will work on creating a solid foundation for acting and build individual skill sets. Each week, we will begin the acting intensive with ensemble building and improvisation– Students will be introduced to quick and powerful tools to make performances natural and spontaneous, efficiently build character development, as well as clear and concise insight to each student’s natural acting strengths and opportunities to grow. For script and character analysis, we will be using scenes and monologue selections from ‘After math’ by Jonathan Dorf, with each student receiving their own paper copy to keep for future audition monologue opportunities. At the end of this workshop, we will be putting on an in studio Black Box performance of this short 35 minute one-act play to showcase the actors’ hard work.

No previous training or experience is required. Due to the more mature themes of the script, we are recommending ages 12+

Play Description: When a man and woman in suits take Emmett away in the middle of math class, his classmates come up with their own explanations for his mysterious disappearance. He's off to his own private rock concert. He was kidnapped by aliens. He was an alien himself. He created a mural that offended the school. A victim of bullies, he engineered his own disappearance...and a multitude of other guesses. Slowly we begin to realize that no one really knew him. Who is Emmett, and why is it that no one paid any attention to him until he was gone?
